FOR CONGRESS.

LOVELL H. ROUSSEAU.

THURSDAY, AUGUST 16, 1866.

Both the Democrat and the Courier have put forth conciliatory and liberal articles, in regard to the policy best to be pursued by all Conservatives in Kentucky, in the present condition of the country's affairs. Both of those papers strongly counsel harmony of feeling and action between such of the conservatives as supported General Hobson, and such of them as supported Judge Dewart. We can most cordially unite with them in their good counsel, believing that its adoption is absolutely demanded by the public good. If those of our people who were disloyal in the war, and those who were loyal, can unite together upon the ground of present loyalty and strict conservatism, neither class discriminating against the other in elections, or in any political movements or operations, it is in the highest degree important that they should do so. The late conflict ought never to have taken place, and its asperities cannot be too soon buried out of mortal sight, if the masses of the two parties that were arrayed against each other are alike seeking to advance the best interests of the Union, and alike willing to co-operate honestly and fairly together for the country's good, now and in the future.

If there is co-operation, it must of course be upon the basis of entire equality. No Central or other Committee, made up exclusively either of those who were for the rebellion or those who were against it, must assume the ordering of political affairs. There must be liberal and thorough compromise. The true policy, in our opinion, is that the Hobson Conservatives and the Duvall Conservatives (we use the names of these distinguished gentlemen merely as a matter of convenience) should stand and act in full fellowship with each other upon the platform of the genuine Northern Democracy. Undoubtedly the Northern Democracy are ready and disposed, upon all occasions, as a body, to repudiate the right of secession, and to acknowledge a debt of gratitude to the brave hosts that put down the rebellion, but there is no particular need of such repudiation and acknowledgment at this time (both being perfectly understood), and there can be no pressing reason why any of the Kentucky supporters of President Johnson's policy should decline to act in elections with the Northern Democrats, dimer with them as they may in regard to the principle, the abstract right, of secession. Whatever the masses North and South may think about secession, they appreciate the paramount, the infinite importance of withholding those monstrous radical measures which now immediately threaten the destruction of everything fit to exist.

One of our greatest hopes, at present, for universal conservative harmony rests upon the Convention in session in Philadelphia. That Convention, consisting of the best and bravest and most patriotic conservatives North and South, all intent and bent upon the accomplishment of a great and common purpose, will, we hope, with our whole souls, establish a platform of political principles, a platform of political action, upon which all the opposers of radicalism and Jacobinism can stand and act together without reference to any questions involved in past political contests.

Of course we cannot undertake to pronounce upon the action of the Philadelphia Convention until it shall have adjourned. But if it fails in its work, we shall despair. The sum of hope will seem to lie down upon our souls.

The New York Evening Post, a very able Republican paper, says that "it was the duty and policy of the Republican leaders to show that if in war they knew how to use effect the enormous power of the central Government, in peace they would establish to establish as far as possible that local self-government on which, as the balance-wheel in our political system, trade and safe progress in liberty depends." As the party in power, during the war, they had been compelled to force an unlimited extent; it was the more necessary that, for the restoration of peace they should show a readiness to return at once to strict constitutional forms, practices and limitations."

All this is true, but, we apprehend, it is no less true that the Republican leaders or a large portion of them were impelled, less by patriotism than by hate and revenge, to use the enormous power of the central Government in putting down the rebellion, and that their fierce and vengeful feelings, instead of being mitigated by the nominal return of peace, have been greatly aggravated by a conviction on their part that they have now full and unbounded power to tyrannize over the South. There are certainly bold patriots, subordinating in their own minds all other objects to the country's restoration to its pristine prosperity and glory, but the will of these were impelled, but the will of the men of the South; no doubt they did, in most cases, the best they could for the unfortunate victims they held in captivity, but we would vindicate nevertheless the truth of history. And the truth of history is that the number of Northern prisoners who perished in Southern prisons was, from well-known causes, incomparably greater in proportion than that of the Southern prisoners who died in Northern prisons.

INTERNAL LITERATURE—Louis Napoleon, in the second volume of his Judas, says, "In the midst of general property dangers Utopia reigned in the country, the slightest employment extinguished them; but on the contrary, when society, deeply fermenting, was real and independent, when the efforts of many thousand of men were concentrated in the destruction of the world, they could not be put out, but were quenched in the flames of civil war. His purpose is civil war; it can be nothing less. The treason of a more unmitigated traitor never blackened and festered in the hot rays of a Southern sun. Will not every Republican, who loves the Union, who would uphold law and order, and who deprecates intestine war and horrid despotism and still more horrid anarchy, unite with us in condemnation of such fiend-like advice as that of the Jefferson City organ?"

We suppose that Queen Emma, of the Sandwich Islands, is now in Washington. The Sandwich Island King, it is said, has a mortal antipathy to everything American on account of having been called a "nigger" while traveling through the United States a few years ago. If he isn't a "nigger," he is in his veins the blood of the cannibals that cooked Capt. Cook.

The world's great captains are often only commissioners officers, while the true commanders of the world's greatest battles sometimes sit in their tents centuries back from the fight, the onset and the victory. Theirs is the voice, and not the fellow's that echoes it and kicks up a dust with his charge.

The editor of the Journal has reached his proper level. He is wallowing among the tumble-bugs, and helping them to roll their worm. —Courier.

Poets have never been deemed the best men on "Change." A man can not bury his love in a money-bag and voice its resurrection in a poem, —

—Wishes will be so manifest that, when understood, it will command the hearty and determined support of unconquerable majorities in all sections.

We have no doubt that the members of the Cabinet are full accord with each other, and with the President, in regard to the policy to be pursued by the Government in this perilous crisis. Some doubt has been expressed as to the position of the Secretary of War, but we are confident that he will support the views of the President, sustained as they certainly will be by the Philadelphia Convention.

The Louisville Journal exceeds the most violent of the radical papers of the North in the virulence of its attacks upon Vandalligham, Pendleton, Pugh, Long, the Woods, and all the rest, except the representatives of the Democratic party of the North. And yet it professes to desire the defeat of the radicals! —Courier.

We wish that the Courier would measure or weigh its statements with a little more care. It is altogether too reckless. We fear that it is wholly so. We have spoken freely of Vandalligham, but we have said very little of Pendleton and Pugh, and scarcely anything about Long and the Woods. Indeed we don't remember to have even mentioned Long's name.

The Courier says that we profess to desire the defeat of the radicals. Yes, we profess this in all earnestness, and it seems to us that an effective support of the principles of conservatism demands the exposure and repudiation of such mischievous spirits as Vandalligham, who has, by his thoroughly disloyal course, done probably more to strengthen the radicalism of the country than any other man in it. The best men of the South, the section to whose interests Mr. Vandalligham and his friends would have it thought that they are devoting themselves, recognize him as a mischief-maker, an unmilitant evil and curse to their cause, and depurate all connection with him.

It seems that we were probably mistaken in our conjecture that Mr. Vandalligham would assist upon endeavoring to force himself, at all hazards, into the Philadelphia Convention. Such was certainly his determination, and for a time he persisted in it, but, according to one of the Philadelphia dispatches that we published yesterday, he has decided to change his purpose. Still it is a doubtless a very unfortunate thing that he went to Philadelphia at all in the character of a delegate, for evidently there will be some dissatisfaction and wrangling on his account. If he had sincerely desired to prevent any disturbance of the spirit of harmony that should prevail among the members of a vastly important national body charged with the duty of deliberating and acting upon the most momentous issues that ever agitated a country, certainly he would have it done with the utmost propriety and skill, intelligence, and enterprise he has. A people gifted with such initiative power will not fail to profit by an extended sphere of observation.

A new chapter has come over the humor of the immaculate Andrew. Harry started a nice little party of his own under the lead of Doolittle, Randall, &c., those geniuses by with a decided aversion to address a circular to each of the departments, and all the heads thereof, informing them that, unless they contribute to the support of the party advocating "no vote" the day may be the immediate removal —Indomitable Gazette.

We don't believe one word of this. We are sure that it is a downright fabrication. If the Indianapolis editor or any other editor has seen such a circular as the Gazette speaks of, why not the document published? Why tell the people about it and not let them see it and judge of it for themselves? Will the unscrupulous slanders of the Administration never weary of their mendacious and nefarious work?

A Virginia contemporary has taken the pains to look into the relative numbers of prisoners of war who fell into the hands of the United States and of the Confederate States, and the number of deaths, respecting those held in confinement by each of the advocates, and the result is a signal demonstration of the infamously of the administration in the North is that the chief obstacles to the success of the President's policy. The masses there loathe it with a detestation that nothing can smother or eradicate. They ascribe it to the want of skill, intelligence, and enterprise have been fully evinced. A people gifted with such initiative power will not fail to profit by an extended sphere of observation.

Newspaper men have come over the humor of the immaculate Andrew.

The Louisville Journal, the day before the election in that State, said of General Hobson, the "Conservative Union soldier," that he was not supported by the Union soldiers. —Courier.

The report to which we allude—the Health Officer's report—was handed to the local of the Journal, and it was published in the paper. This report was a copy of the one made by the Health Officer to the Board of Health, and it contained no new matter, up to 12 o'clock, could not be obtained. The attempt to defend is beneath the notice of a newspaper. We have no objection to the act of showing it to the Board of Health, and the other papers may do so, if they like. The report in advance of contemporaneous "Journal" of course.

The author of the article who wrote the above paragraph could not get a decent reader of his own paper to believe one of his slanderous words. There was no time to publish it, and it was not to be furnished to the other offices. The copy of the document was promised us before the meeting of the Board of Health was called to order, and was given to us at the close of the session, and made by the Secretary. We assumed he had a proof, so as to the matter could be put in type. The editor of the "Journal" has been informed, so far as he can say, it must have been furnished them, and at ten minutes to twelve the proof was ready. Just as the "What-is-he" of the Democratic party got out of the paper, he sent a copy of the report into his paper. He was no more entitled to a duplicate of the report than any other man in the city. He had a copy of the "Journal" on his desk until the proceedings of the meeting had been advanced. We carefully allowed him to see what was done, and what had transpired up to the time he entered the room, and subsequently, we as definitely proved him a copy of the Health Officer's report. But the author of the article accepted the report as it was, without consulting his documents and without a dream of exciting his displeasure by an unmeaning or trifling of a few minutes. No, he trotted off, and passed over the bridge, and elminated his name by a hasty blow. He knows full well, and we know by reason of former teachers on his part, that he is a scoundrel. We have all along been charitable to him, and have often told him so, without any Jezebel or Jaelian effort to do so. Furthermore, we have never descended to the least undignified way of our confounds, and notwithstanding ever came to do except from that instant.

Nothing but corroborative fact has been stated in the foregoing remarks of ours. We've now only to add that the author of the article is a scoundrel of the Democratic estimation in every word.

A House-train in a Train-Place.—The Captain, whose mother resides near Nashville, on the Murfreesboro' place, has been living here and driving about town. He is a son of Mr. W. H. Howell and Mr. H. Howell, his father, deceased. On last Saturday night Mr. Howell's stable was entered and his horse, saddle and bridle taken away. Captain Howell, who is a member of the State Auditor's office, Mr. Alex. Gilmer, were搜尋ed, and he at once satisfied himself that Howell was the man and had started for Nashville. He then took the train to New Orleans, and got there on Monday morning. About 8 o'clock Howell came riding into town upon the steamer. Mr. Howell informed him to dismount. The man had been passing through the various hotels, and had returned to this city by the next train. Howell had his preliminary trial yesterday evening, and was held to stand to answer an indictment for house-breaking.

PERSONAL.—The following were the distinguished arrivals at the various hotels last evening: Governor G. A. Henry, the eagle of Tennessee; Matthew Brown, Mayor of Nashville; Clementine, daughter of the late Dr. Wm. C. W. Lovell; Jackson Whig, Tennessee; L. E. Atwood, Memphis Post; Col. J. P. Johnson, ex-Confederate Army and Louisville; Dr. W. W. Lovell, Dr. D. Hopkins, Dr. F. M. M., V. V. Rutherford, H. O. Oviatt, Dr. M. Hamilton, A. L. Stein, H. R. Roll, G. W. Roberts, R. A. Porter, James C. Kelton, Joseph D. Moore, Dr. W. H. Howell, Dr. W. H. Howell, H. A. F. Denney, J. M. Stevenson, G. F. Walker, Martin H. Miller, and Cumberland Bank Corp. of Nashville—all the Willard, Dupre and Douglass.

Up to 12 M. there were no distinguished arrivals at the police stations or jail.

BANKS.—We regret to learn of a series of accidents upon the Louisville and Nashville Railroad in the last day or two, by which passengers, mails, &c., have been lost. Two mail cars and the mail and club of Nashville, were upon one of the trains yesterday, and consequently delayed. The mail master and postmaster both which they were to play a part in the postal service, and the mail for the first mail, was postponed till Tuesday morning. It will be played post on Wednesday morning. Of those who escaped, it is the Market-street cars to Nineteenth street, and those three squares north to the grounds. Passengers taking this route have no fare and a change of car.

A HARD CASE.—Joseph Adams was before the Police Court yesterday morning presented as a suspect. He had been stopped at the Louisville Hotel, and was identified as being a man who was a member of the detective police force of St. Louis. He was not encumbered with any baggage or money. His home associations attracted attention, and he was suspected of being a spy. He denied that something was wrong. He was arrested, and on his person a forged check for $200, on the People's Bank, signed by L. L. Warren & Co., was found. He was released on $200, and held in sum for six months. The police are after his associates, and will probably connect him with other secret transactions here. He is accused of being a spy.

POLICE COURT.—John J. Jones, the Cox of the New York City police, and his son, were arrested for drunkards and disorderly conduct. They were Michael Lynch, Sally Riley, Nellie Holden, John Nodan and Johnnie Buckley; fined $1 each, and $1000 for their release. They were released on $1000, and held in sum for thirty days. Lorinda Davison, same offense; discharged. George Sandel, for shooting dead animals within the city limits, fined $100, and held in sum for six months. The police are after his associates, and will probably connect him with other secret transactions here. He is accused of being a spy.

THE CRIMINAL.—John J. Jones, the Cox of the New York City police, and his son, were arrested for drunkards and disorderly conduct. They were Michael Lynch, Sally Riley, Nellie Holden, John Nodan and Johnnie Buckley; fined $1 each, and $1000 for their release. They were released on $1000, and held in sum for thirty days. Lorinda Davison, same offense; discharged. George Sandel, for shooting dead animals within the city limits, fined $100, and held in sum for six months. The police are after his associates, and will probably connect him with other secret transactions here. He is accused of being a spy.

RAILROAD ACCIDENT.—Last Friday evening the trains northward on the Louisville and Nashville Railroad were delayed for nearly an hour in nothing serious. A wheel under the lathe car, about two miles south Galatin, burst. The axle broke, and, falling upon the track, tore up a rail, and turned the car into the ditch. The passenger of the sleeping car, who uncoiled the car from the platform, probably suffered a few bruises, and a few dollars damage to his property.

THE CRIMINAL.—The critic who is writing the history of the novel, "Stowaway," which is a good book, and is to be made into a picture, reviews pronounces it "an extreme specimen of a vicious school of novels which do much harm, and are calculated to make men bad, and to be productive of evil." On the other hand, the Christian Review says: "It is enchanting throughout. The plot in poetry, fire and grace, and a subtle Christian influence pervades the whole."

THE AUTHOR.—M. W. H. Howell, I. M. Smith, and others, will meet to discuss the book, and to determine whether it will be published or not.
